Imagine yourself in a healing and nurturing environment. An angelic presence warmly greets you and invites you to sit in a relaxing sauna. Peaceful music plays in the background and your worries, stress and tension begin to release their grip on your body. Soon all your cells are gently but vigorously stimulated with sound and color frequencies. You rest in deep relaxation as your body begins to restore itself.

In today's stressful world, the physical body contains hundreds of man made chemicals. Internal and external pressures increase to unhealthy proportions and without a method of release, disease builds.
